

EDUCATION SUPPORT OPPORTUNITY Pediatrics for the 21st Century Symposium

Don't miss the 2019 Pediatrics for the 21st Century Program, "Opioids Through the Ages: Caring for Children and Families in the Wake of the Opioid Crisis."

The opioid crisis has decimated families and communities and reaches across all age, socioeconomic, and ethnic divides. Pediatricians and pediatric specialists can have an enormous impact on decreasing this epidemic, while providing optimal pain management. This program will focus on the need for opioids in surgery, injury, and other clinical situations, while emphasizing how to minimize side effects and complications of opioid use. Faculty will discuss areas that lead to opioid exposure, alternatives to opioids for pain treatment, and situations when opioid use is not only unhelpful but also can be harmful. The session will conclude with steps pediatricians can take to prevent opioid misuse and decrease the availability of these drugs in their communities.

☑ Peds21 is attended by over 750 attendees.
